2020 Conference

Encountering God: Practical Theology and the Mission to Heal

Virtual Conference

Wednesday 2 December –
Friday 4 December 2020

Conference Program

Welcome to APTO's first online conference!

During the conference you can:

- Attend live Zoom presentations from our keynote speakers;
- Access almost 50 research papers presented by academics, researchers, higher degree students and ministry practitioners;
- Engage in small discussion groups with the authors of papers of interest to you;
- Discover and connect with like-minded researchers through interest group meetings and social gatherings;
- Expand your knowledge and understanding of many strands of Practical Theology;
- Be re-inspired to continue your own research.

In this document you will find:

- The conference schedule
- Details of keynote speakers
- A list of workshop paper presenters and titles
- Other information, including how to get help.

Conference website (<https://apto2020.site/>)

The conference website is your primary hub for information about the conference. This is where you go to find information about the workshop sessions and access the pre-recorded papers.

Click on the heading "Program" to go to the program page, then click on any session that you are interested in. Inside each session section you will find information such as the name of the presenters in that group and the title and abstract of their paper.

Registration

To register for the conference, go to <https://apto2020.site/> and click on Registration. Conference fees are $50 for APTO members and $75 for non-members.

Zoom links

The Zoom links you will need to join the plenary sessions and workshop sessions are not on the website but will be sent to you once you have registered for the conference.

At the time indicated in the conference schedule, click on the appropriate Zoom link to join the session you want to participate in.

Social Media

APTO encourages delegates to share your experiences of the conference and engage with one another over social media using #ATPO2020.

APTO has a Facebook (<https://www.facebook.com/Association-of-Practical-Theology-in-Oceania-741611209192229/>) and Twitter account (https://twitter.com/APTO_APTO).

Keynote Speakers

And now! Being Church after the Royal Commission

Francis Sullivan AO

Francis Sullivan AO was the CEO of the Catholic Church's Truth Justice and Healing Council through the course of the Royal Commission into Child Sexual Abuse. Prior to that he was the Secretary General of the AMA and CEO of Catholic Health Australia. He currently is Executive Chair of the Mater Group of hospitals in Queensland, a director of Mercy Health Australia and chairs Catholic Social services Australia.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times: A practical theological reflection in a pandemic

Dr Rosie Joyce CSB

Rosie Joyce is a Brigidine Sister and canon lawyer who lectures in canon law at Yarra Theological Union, a college of the University of Divinity. Her PhD thesis, The Understanding and Practice of the Vow of Obedience by a Selected Group of Women Religious: An Australian Study is the first comprehensive Australian study of how women religious view and live this vow today. She has taught in primary and secondary schools across Victoria and has been the principal of four different secondary schools. Rosie has also been the Provincial Leader of the Brigidines and is a past president of Catholic Religious Australia, the peak body representing the female and male religious congregations in Australia.

Strength and vulnerability: a review of the Church's capacity for a mission to heal

Dr Ruth Powell

What is the current capacity of the Church to take part in God's mission to heal? What resources are available for this task? What are the challenges that must be acknowledged? Dr Ruth Powell, Director of NCLS Research, has been studying the relationship between church and wider community for nearly 30 years. Using the rich information from community surveys, Ruth will outline how Australians approach spirituality and religion, as well as their openness to churches.

She will also highlight insights across decades from National Church Life Surveys – the largest dataset on local church life in the world. With a focus on the resources found among churchgoers, leaders, and local churches, Ruth will reflect on how well-equipped the Church currently is to continue a mission to heal. Ruth Powell has worked with NCLS Research since 1991 and became Director in 2007. She also holds a position as Associate Professor and Research Fellow, Public and Contextual Theology Research Centre, Charles Sturt University, as well as Honorary Professor at Alphacrucis College.

How the workshop sessions work

Workshop papers will not be presented during the workshops. Instead, all conference participants (presenters and others) will have the opportunity to go to the conference website before the conference and view the pre-recorded presentations they are interested in.

The purpose of the 45-minute workshop sessions is to provide opportunities to discuss the papers listed for each session and to ask questions of the authors. Each of the three authors in each session will be offered an opportunity to make a brief comment about their own paper.

The only papers to be presented live during the conference will be those by the Keynote Speakers.

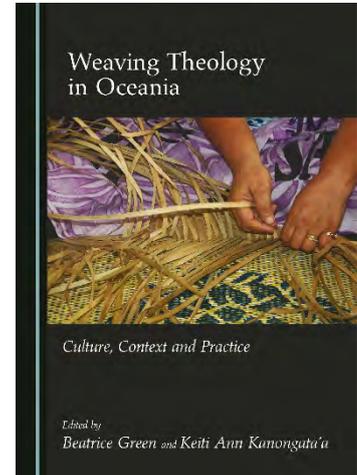

Other sessions

Launch

This session will celebrate the launch of Weaving Theology in Oceania: Culture, Context and Practice, the book resulting from the 2018 APTO conference held in Suva, Fiji.

The book, published by Cambridge Scholars Publishing, was co-edited by APTO members Beatrice Green and Keiti Ann Kanongata'a SOLN, and contains 16 chapters by APTO members and other Fiji conference participants.

This session will also include the launch of the Journal of Contemporary Ministry. Designed as a fully peer-reviewed journal for the consideration of every aspect of contemporary ministry, and founded by Harvest Bible College, it has been taken over by the Christian Research Association to support academic reflection on the practice of ministry.

Interest groups

This is your chance to gather together people who share your interests for a Zoom discussion. It can be anything at all, from why the Wallabies beat the All Blacks to the finer points of Lonergan's Method in Theology. You host your own Zoom session. Just write a short description of your interest group and send it along with a Zoom link to Bob Dixon at redixon01@gmail.com anytime before the conference and right up to lunchtime on Day 1.

Imagine That!

What will you take away from this conference (apart from a Zoom overdose)? How will you incorporate what you have learnt into your teaching, your research, your study, your ministry, your life? Join Scriptural storyteller Jeff Lawrence and Scripture scholar Debra Snoddy for this session at the end of the conference where you will be challenged to consider how the conference has influenced you.

Social gatherings

No conference would be complete without social gatherings – that's where new professional contacts are made and friendships cemented. Only this time, you have to bring your own drinks and nibbles! Depending on the size of the group, the gathering might be split into break-out rooms to enable easier interaction.

Dinner and picnic

We can't be all together in the one place at this conference, but participants living in the same cities might like to gather together on the Thursday evening. Such places include Melbourne, Sydney, Brisbane and Canberra. Gatherings could be at a restaurant or in a park, depending on weather and local COVID restrictions. Participants will be given the contact details of the local organiser in each place.

Information for participants

It is highly probable that you are already quite familiar with using Zoom. But if you are not, here's what to do:

To join a meeting, simply click the website link related to the session you wish to join. That will open your browser and ask you to open Zoom. Do so and you will enter the meeting. The links will be sent to you after you have registered for the conference and before the conference begins.

If for some reason the link doesn't work, go to <https://zoom.us/>, click on "Join a meeting", and enter the meeting ID and then the meeting passcode that you received along with the link.

Where possible, join the meeting a few minutes in advance of the start of the session, so that you have a chance to test your connection and the meeting can begin promptly at the scheduled time.

Discussion groups during the Conference aim to facilitate open and stimulating conversations.

All content is for your viewing during and after the conference, and must not be distributed or shared with anyone else, and should not be cited without express written permission from the presenter.

During the plenary presentations

- Everyone except for the speaker will be muted.
- If we experience bandwidth issues, we may have to ask that everyone not currently asking a question turn off their video as well. However, even if your video is off, you'll still be able to see the speaker.

Questions during plenary and workshop sessions

- Send your question in a private "Chat" message to the Chair of the session.
- The "Chat" function is found on the bottom bar of your Zoom screen. Open it and you'll see a box to type messages. At the outset this is set to "Everyone." Click on "Everyone" and you'll see a drop-down list, and then choose the person chairing. Then you can send them your question directly. Keep questions as concise as possible.
- The Chair will keep track of the questions as they come in and will call on questioners when it is their turn.
- When called on, you will need to unmute your microphone (and make sure your video is on) in order to ask your question. Remember, it takes a second or two for the audio to kick in.
- The Chair will try to get to everyone, and may remind participants that others are waiting.

Recording

All sessions will be recorded for archival purposes.

Help / Questions

At any point before or during the conference, if you need some assistance, you can contact Bob Dixon (Conference Planning Group) redixon01@gmail.com (+61 408 219 335) and/or Paul Egan (Technical Manager) paullygon@gmail.com (+61 422 112 474).

Becoming a member of APTO

APTO invites academics, researchers, higher degree students and ministry practitioners in practical theology and related fields to apply for membership of the Association.

Becoming a member entails three steps:

- (1) Completing the Membership Application Form (available at <http://apto.asn.au/membership>) and returning it to Bob Dixon at redixon01@gmail.com
- (2) Paying the membership fee (for calendar year 2021) on the conference registration site.
- (3) The application for membership being accepted at the APTO AGM to be held during the conference. In the unlikely event of a particular membership application being rejected, the membership fee will be refunded.

Non-members can register for the conference at the members' rate if they also pay for 2021 membership at the same time, thereby saving $25 on the registration fee.

The membership application form asks that applicants for membership nominate a proposer. This can be left blank at the present time; applicants will be contacted personally about this prior to the AGM.

Thank you

Before the conference formalities begin, we, the APTO Conference Planning Group, wish to particularly thank all of the researchers, students and practitioners who have embraced the opportunity to present a paper in this online conference. We thank you for your patience and understanding as we changed plans from hosting a physical conference to an online conference and developed new instructions to assist you to present your paper in this unfamiliar way. Well done and thank you!

We are particularly grateful to our keynote speakers, Francis Sullivan AO, Dr Rosie Joyce CSB and Dr Ruth Powell for so generously sharing their expertise and insights with us. We also thank Jeff Lawrence for his contribution to the Imagine That! session, and all those people who acted as MC's of the plenary sessions and facilitators of the workshop sessions, instigated interest group meetings, or organised local dining events. Every conference depends on acts like these to ensure its success.

We would especially like to thank APTO member Jenny Close who took on the job of graphic design for this conference program at quite short notice. We are sure you will agree that she has done an excellent job.

We also thank Paul Egan, who designed the conference website. It was no small task; given that this is the first time we have attempted to run a virtual conference, we were never entirely sure how to proceed. But Paul took it all in his stride and, almost before we knew it, had created or modified the website to do just what we hoped it would be able to do.

IN OCEANIA

When the conference was first proposed as a face-to-face conference to be held in Melbourne, the Sisters of St Joseph, the Institute of Sisters of Mercy of Australia and Papua New Guinea, and the Divine Word Missionaries all offered substantial amounts to help fund the travel costs, accommodation and conference fees of people from the Pacific Islands engaged in Christian ministry and theological reflection who would not otherwise have been able to attend. As it turned out, this sponsorship was not required, but we are truly grateful for the generosity of these two congregations.

Finally, we wish to express our gratitude to Meg Nelson, Events and Communications Manager at the University of Divinity, and to the organisers of the University of Divinity's online Research Conference held in June this year. The APTO conference is modelled on it and we have borrowed many ideas and even a considerable amount of the written content of this program from the UD conference.
